Florida's Homegrown Foodbank working to make sure no Floridian goes hungry and that no food goes to waste.

The Farm Share Story

Farm Share is a Florida-grown food nonprofit working to make sure no Floridian goes hungry and that no food goes to waste. In 1991, Founder and former CEO Patricia D. Robbins noticed that thousands of pounds of fresh and nutritious produce were going to waste because they didn't meet commercial beauty standards to be sold in grocery stores. Her hunger to help the community and reduce food waste led to Farm Share becoming one of the leading food nonprofits in Florida.
